

I am switched all directions of work and further personal development with the aim of constant self-improvement in the field of computer technologies because this is the future. In my spare time I have been learning many different Frontend and Backend technologies. And actually, I fell in love with Backend, and I really want to develop further as a specialist in this direction. If you are looking for a hard-working, self-motivated junior (trainee) JAVA developer with a huge desire to learn more, look no further, I am your guy. Just give me some test task =)
